Legal Basis and Purpose of Data Processing.

The data provided will be processed to the extent strictly necessary and for purposes related to enrolment in, selection process and participation in the workshop.

Nature of Data Provision and Consequences of Refusal

The personal data provided is processed in compliance with the principles of lawfulness, fairness, and transparency, as required by law, also using computerized and electronic tools designed to store and manage the data while ensuring its security and protecting the highest level of confidentiality for the data subject.

The provision of data is mandatory. Refusal to provide data makes it impossible for the Data Controller, the Data Processor, and authorized personnel to carry out data processing operations, thereby preventing registration and the management of related procedural activities.

Data Processing Methods and Authorized Personnel

Data collection is carried out in compliance with the principles of relevance, completeness, and non-excessiveness concerning the purposes for which the data is processed.

The processing of the aforementioned data is conducted through manual, paper-based, and computerized procedures, with data entered into paper and/or digital archives solely for the purpose of fulfilling legal requirements or for administrative and educational purposes, by individuals authorized to process this data.

Rights of the data subject

The individual may request, from the data controller or the data protection officer indicated above, subject to applicable conditions, access to their personal data in accordance with Article 15 of the Regulation, rectification of data in accordance with Article 16, deletion of data in accordance with Article 17, or restriction of processing in accordance with Article 18 of the Regulation. Additionally, they may object to data processing as per Article 21 of the Regulation and exercise the right to data portability under Article 20.

In case of any breach of the Regulation's provisions, the individual may file a complaint with the Data Protection Authority.
